New EP Out Now On Cleopatra Records

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Los Angeles, CA (Wednesday, April 22, 2015) Love Blooms To Black, the new, 5 song EP from singer-songwriter Jennifer Hope has been released on Cleopatra Records and is available on all major online music outlets / stores including iTunes, Amazon and Google Play.

On her latest record, Jennifer worked closely with several renowned producers: Warren Huart (who worked with Aerosmith and produced The Fray, James Blunt), Pete Strobl (who worked with Kings of Leon, Keb' Mo') and Tommy Reeves (who worked with Ziggy Marley, Melissa Etheridge, Sophie B. Hawkins) to create tracks with the ethereal sound she is known for.

The final production attracted Cleopatra Records who said, "Jennifer Hope revisits modern classics, adding her unique magic to every song." The EP includes hit songs from Leona Lewis, Coldplay, The Police, U2 and Godsmack.

"Jennifer Hope will capture you with her incomparable interpretations of well-known songs. Like all great song interpreters, this enchanting chanteuse doesn't just cover a song; she embodies it and makes it her own. In fact, her unique inflections add a mystical sheen that often makes her version better than the original. Jennifer's preternatural ability personifies a song's essence, making it seem as if you're hearing it for the first time. With Love Blooms to Black, it's obvious that Jennifer Hope has come into her own."
